The War Today..

Japan Is Worried

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign News Analyst

IS IT NECESSARY for the Allies to enforce unconditional surrender on Japan? That question naturally arises from the statement by Nippon's Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura that our policy of unconditional surrender is only costing us higher casualties. Nomura (who incidentally seems to be one of the few Jap admirals that haven't committed hara-kari for the honor of the Mikado) presumably is fishing for easier peace conditions—that, and trying to cause discord among the Allies. It's a safe bet that Japan would leap at terms which would permit her to salvage any of her war-loot.

Apologies of this great problem there has been running through my mind like a theme song a phrase which came out of Berlin a week ago in a news dispatch. Daniel De Luce, an Associated Press correspondent, in reporting the entrance of American troops into the German capital, wrote this graphic line:

"There were tears of joy and cries of 'God be thanked' from some Berliners, but others were silent and sullen." It means that these "others" aren't repentant. They would provide fertile soil for the seeds of a new Hitler. If we hadn't compelled unconditional surrender and thereby made sure that we could complete the task of knocking militarism out of Germany.

Prussian militarism is a terrible evil, but it probably isn't so deeply shrouded as is the Japanese brand. Nippon's savage glorification of war runs persistently through the long centuries of her history. The soldier always has been the hero of the island empire.

But there's another and even more important aspect of the situation. This Japanese war of aggression is founded on more than the mere desire to increase the Mikado's domains and influence. Underlying it is the devilish design of forming a powerful Asiatic bloc of nations which would be pitted in conflict against the western world. There we have the makings of the racial conflict which even the militaristic old Kaiser of Germany warned the world to beware as it would the devil.

There is evidence that even recently the Japanese militarists, realizing that they are losing this war, have been plotting another assault 25 years hence. Were they permitted to carry out this scheme, Turn to WAR TODAY, Page 5

Job Placements In City Show Veteran Preference

A greater proportion of veterans than non-veterans are being placed in skilled, semi-skilled, professional and managerial jobs throughout Ohio, according to the latest report of the War Manpower Commission, announced by Arthur S. Johnston, manager of the Salem office of the United States Employment Service.

The latest monthly comparison for May, of veteran and non-veteran placements in Ohio shows that 32.4 per cent of veterans are placed in skilled, semi-skilled, professional and managerial positions, while 23.6 per cent of non-veteran placements are in those higher job classifications," he said.

Placements of veterans through the Salem office of the USES so far this year total 158, he reported.

Two Girls Complete Studies, Become Regular Draftsmen

Two Salem girls, Isabelle Lockhart of the Electric Furnace Co. and Joyce Sommerville of the Salem Engineering Co., will be among a graduating class of 16 to be honored at 6:30 this evening at the Memorial building when the Salem Trades Extension class observes its annual commencement exercise.

The pair, both now journeymen draftsmen, are believed to be the first women to complete draftsman courses in state vocational educational programs in this section of Ohio. Both have completed 8,000 hours of drafting work and have 12 study credits, aggregating four years' study.

Miss Sommerville is employed in the mill machinery department at her plant, under E. T. Trebilcock, chief engineer. Miss Lockhart, a member of the Electric Furnace Co. engineering department, is employed under A. F. Kingsley, chief draftsman.

The exercises tonight will follow a dinner meeting. Supt. E. S. Kerr will present diplomas to the graduates and movies on various phases of their work will be shown.

The films have been arranged through the efforts of George Perault, personnel director of the Salem Engineering Co., Holland Cameron, Trades Class coordinator, announced.

TRUMAN'S SHIP NEARS END OF TRIP ABROAD

President 'At Home' On Cruiser Enroute To 'Big 3' Meeting

ABOARD CRUISER AUGUSTA, July 11.—Bristling with guns, this historic warship carried President Truman closer today to his first Big Three meeting, on the outskirts of Berlin.

Mr. Truman holds high hopes his Potsdam talks with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin will chart the course of lasting European peace and speed an Allied victory over Japan.

A two-cruiser task force is carrying the chief executive and his party across the Atlantic.

As the ships reached mid-ocean yesterday, Mr. Truman approved the first direct shipboard report on his voyage, which had been through waters calm as the Missouri river. Correspondents of the three news services and a representative of the radio networks are making the trip.

Up no later than 6 a. m. every day, Mr. Truman wears a sporty cap cocked on the side of his head and obviously is enjoying himself. He is suntanned and looks as fit as an athlete.

At Home On Vessel

Monday the President conducted newsmen on a tour of the ship from the boiler rooms to the highest towers.

Chatting with seamen patients in sick bay, Mr. Truman voiced the hope to one youth he would recover soon.

The chief executive made easy work of the ship's ladders despite his 61 years.

Leaving Washington last Friday night, the party sailed Saturday from Newport News, Va.

In the group—chief of staff, to accompany a president to such a meeting—are Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's personal chief of staff, and his military and naval aides, Brig. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, and Capt. James K. Vardaman.

Also in the party are Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, H. Freeman Matthews, director of the State department's Office of European Affairs; Charles E. Bohlen, the department's expert on Russia; Benjamin V. Cohen of Byrnes' staff; and Capt. Alphonse McMahon, a naval surgeon assigned to look after the health of the travelers.

From the port of debarkation the party will fly to Potsdam, where it is understood they will be met by Army Chief of Staff George C. Marshall, Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, and possibly Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the Army's Air Forces. Joseph E. Davies, a special presidential emissary, and other State, War and Navy department officials also will join the group in Germany.

Mr. Truman will make the flight in his C-54 luxury plane.

Two County Officials Buy Abstracting Firm

The McMillen Abstracting Co., after 50 years of service in Columbiana county with an office in the Lisbon courthouse, has been sold to County Treasurer-elect Vincent Judge and Deputy County Auditor John Litty, both of Salem.

The business will be transferred to the new owners at the end of the week, but Mrs. Jennie C. McMillen will remain as director of the business for a short time. It will continue under the name of the McMillen Abstracting Co.

New Officers Are Installed By Salem Knights Templar

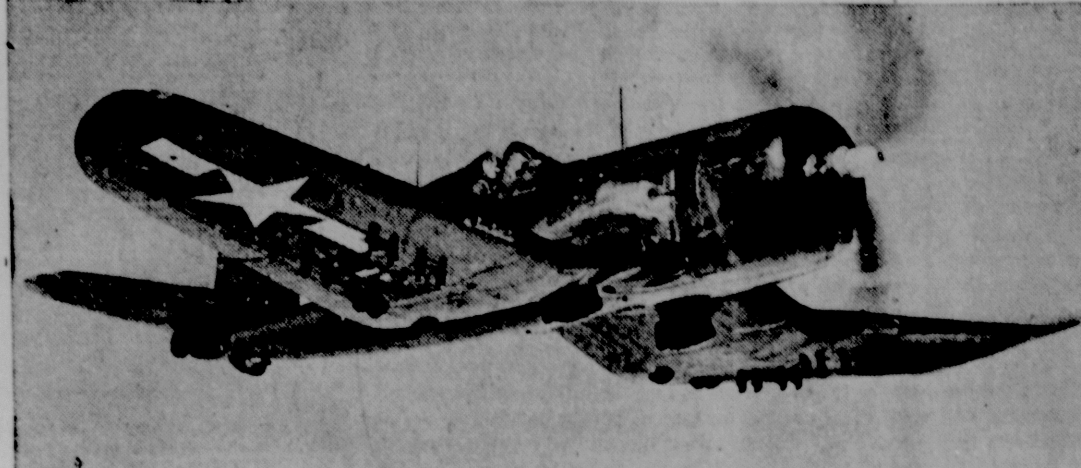

Past Commander Charles D. Wernet installed new officers of Salem commandery, Knights Templar, at impressive ceremonies last night at Masonic temple. Wernet was assisted by A. P. Morris, who served as marshal, and Harry W. Young as chaplain.

Two officers, F. J. Eckstein and A. H. Schropp have unusual records. Eckstein captain general, began his 31st year in this office. He has been a member since 1909 and has never missed one of the commandery's Ascension day services, this service being one of the outstanding of the year. Schropp begins his 14th year as record keeper.

Earl C. Wang is commander and his associate officers are: Generalissimo, Myron Kelley; senior warden, George Mounford; junior warden, Harold Babb; prelate, George Hempstead; treasurer, Paul Sommerville; standard bearer, Earl Day; sword bearer, George Loder; warden, J. Fred Bryan; sentinel, Carl Clay; guards, R. D. Painter, E. H. McCarty and Robert Grum.

New air arm of the U. S. Navy, designed to compete with the fastest air offensive Japan has, is this Corsair fighter, the F4U-4, an improved model that is designed to "chew holes in the sky." It is in the 425-miles-an-hour class, and carries six 50-caliber machine guns in the wings.

Both Tokyo And U.S. Navy Talk Of Invasion After Air Attacks

By LEONARD MILLMAN
Associated Press War Editor

Enemy broadcasts said today the mighty U. S. Third fleet withdrew from Japanese home waters after sending 1,200 carrier planes swarming over Tokyo airdromes for 12 hours yesterday, but warned the raiders might return at any moment.

Tokyo said "about 150" Okinawa-based fighters carried on the unremitting air attack today, sweeping suicide air dromes on Kyushu island of southern Japan.

The Mikado's air force made no announced attack on the Third fleet's Task Force 38 but for the first time in months hurled a handful of interceptors against the U. S. 14th air force ranging over Asia.

Chinese troops occupied Sincing, former 14th USAF base, roughly 200 miles north of Canton, and drove toward Kanchien, another former American air base.

Roams Enemy Waters

While Adm. Chester W. Nimitz was silent on today's operations of Task Force 38, Tokyo reports said American warships withdrew "for some distance to the south." But the Japanese admitted the "Task Force is still in the seas in the vicinity of our homeland."

Nipponese propagandists claimed 26 carrier air craft were shot down by interceptors yesterday and asserted "almost no damages" were inflicted on the more than 70 air-dromes bombed and strafed.

Preliminary reports from the task force said the attack accounted for at least 154 planes, including 72 definitely destroyed. This covered only the first six hours of the attack. Only two of the enemy planes were in the air, both reconnaissance planes.

Other American air units hit 41 small Nipponese ocean going vessels from Japan to Java, and 23 river craft in Java. The bulk of these 64 vessels were damaged.

Hint Amphibious Attack

Admiral Nimitz promised "strong United States air forces," based on conquered islands "within effective striking distance of Japan," will continue to hammer enemy shipping and defenses "preparatory to further amphibious assaults."

He announced Gen. Douglas MacArthur had assumed command of all Army air forces based on Okinawa, incidental to re-grouping American air power in the western Pacific "for greater operating efficiency."

Yesterday's air action included the carrier sweep over Tokyo, successful B-29 raids on four cities and

PHOTOS SHOW RAID EFFECTS

Forty Per Cent of Three Jap Industrial Cities Burned Out

(By Associated Press)

GUAM, July 11.—At least 40 per cent of three more Japanese industrial cities was burned out or damaged by the July 7 Superfortress incendiary raid, the 21st Bomber command reported today.

Reconnaissance photographs showed:

Kofu—64 per cent burned out.

Shimizu—50 per cent of the built up area in the port and industrial center damaged.

Chiba—43 per cent of the railroad terminus razed.

The photos also show heavy damage to three industrial targets of the Chigusa factory in Nagoya arsenal district, the Tachikawa army arsenal and the Utsuabeciver oil refinery.

The Chigusa factory, previously struck by demolition and incendiary attacks, has 77 per cent of its roof damaged. It is a producer of ordnance material.

The Tachikawa army arsenal now appears 50 per cent destroyed. The southern section of Kofu, one of Japan's largest inland cities, is almost completely destroyed and 50 per cent of the buildings in the railroad yard have been wiped out.

The entire urban section of Shimizu, about 85 miles southwest of Tokyo, has been wiped out with the exception of the extreme north and south sections and a small part of the waterfront.

Other corporate members include Michael Schnell, Eleanor M. Bober, and Gus W. Otter.

Allies Bridge Atlantic With Great Air-Sea Rescue System

BY JAMES F. KING

LONDON, July 11.—The Allies have bridged the Atlantic with the greatest air-sea rescue system ever devised in dispatching planes and men home from Europe. Many of the men and machines are headed straight for the Pacific.

The United States, Great Britain and Brazil have marked two direct paths across the ocean with chains of ships, stationed like beacons to guide planes along the way and help any which may be forced down.

Air Currents Shove Bombs Back at Plane During Tokyo Raid

(By Associated Press)

TINIAN, Marianas Islands, July 11.—Thermal air currents generated by fires B-29s started in Wakayama yesterday were so strong they shoved the incendiaries right back into one Superfort through its bomb bay.

Maj. Robert H. Langdale of Houston, Tex., said today that just after his bombardier had released all incendiaries, fused and ready to burst into flame, the hot air sent them crashing upwards into his B-29. They tore away a bomb bay door and hit the plane's horizontal stabilizer, but fell out again without doing any major damage.

Powerful updrafts of scorching hot air flipped the Superfort over on its back in a half loop, heading the plane back over the burning targets.

The plane was flying belly up for several seconds until Maj. Langdale brought it under control and back on its course for a safe return to Tinian.

"Turmoil sure raged inside the plane," Lt. Richard C. Baskett of Holton, Kans., said, "when the bombs bounced up into the bomb bay."

"Water flasks and loose equipment were floating around in the air and sometimes hit us when we weren't looking."

Then the backflip turned the plane over so suddenly, said Lt. Louis Avrami of Atlantic City, N. J., "that when I looked down through the bomb bay, expecting to see fires, I saw stars and the moon because I was actually looking up."

"Then I turned my head and thought I was looking upward but I saw fires. For a moment I wondered if I were dead."

TROOP TRAIN STRIKES CAR ON CROSSING

Mrs. Pearl Grist, Negley, A Relative and Friend Are Victims

A Negley widow, Mrs. Pearl Grist, 67, and two out-of-state women who were visiting her were killed instantly at 9:15 a. m. today at the Pittsburgh st. crossing in Columbiana when their automobile was struck by a west-bound Pennsylvania railroad troop train.

Besides Mrs. Grist, Mrs. William E. Holton, aged about 30, of New Brighton, Pa., and Miss Hazel Hamilton, aged about 43, of Independence, Iowa, a niece of Mrs. Grist, were killed.

Neighbors in Negley said the trio were on their way to Salem, where Miss Hamilton was to take a train for Iowa.

Car Is Demolished

The train dragged the car approximately 1,000 yards toward the Columbiana depot before it was brought to a halt. The women's bodies were still in the demolished vehicle.

The crossing is protected by a bell system, which the women apparently failed to hear. The crossing is clear in both directions, railroad employees said. Mrs. Grist is understood to have been driving the car, headed north.

C. Langdale was engineer of the train, which was carrying troops on the way west after returning recently from service in Italy. Soldiers clambered out of the coaches after the accident.

The bodies of the women were taken to the Fry funeral home in Columbiana. Identification of the two visiting women was difficult early today as Mrs. Grist's brother, William Stroul, of Negley, could not be reached.

She has no children and her husband, R. P. Grist, died on March 19.

Railroad officials said Mrs. Grist had her will and a number of personal papers in her purse. Identification of the other two women was furnished by neighbors who visited the Grist home last evening.

The Time Is Ripe

Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., has chosen the psychologically correct moment to reopen discussion of a two-term limit on the presidency. The death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who broke the two-term tradition, and the favorable impact of Harry Truman's presidency have clarified the issue more thoroughly than years of academic argument were able to clarify it.

The basic question is whether ability to be re-elected constitutes a valid claim to reelection. In 1944, running for his fourth term, Mr. Roosevelt had the ability to be re-elected. By hindsight, however, it is evident that he did not have a valid claim to reelection. His health did not justify it. Moreover, his administration had become stuck on dead center, a circumstance brought into focus by approval of Mr. Truman's changes.

The repercussions of Mr. Roosevelt's long tenure in office will be with the country for many years to come, and not the least of them will be the temptation for every future chief executive to try to equal or better his record of four victories at the polls. Both major parties have a legitimate interest in the development of public opinion for a constitutional amendment to eliminate this possible handicap to good government. President Truman himself properly could commit himself to a two-term limit, as former Governor Bricker of Ohio did last year when he was seeking the Republican presidential nomination.

Demonstration

The continuous demonstration of aviation's military might at Japan's expense will not bring defeat in itself. But it settles forever the absurd argument about aviation's role in war.

The airplanes destroying Japanese cities, pinning down Japan's aviation arm and helping to destroy Japan's navy represent both army and navy forces in the battle area. Some are land-based, and some are carrier-based. Their function is to reduce Japan's land and sea power to the point where the United States, carrying the burden of the war, will be able to use its own land and sea power to maximum advantage. It is a repetition of the military project carried out against Germany, whose air force was made ineffectual as part of the over-all plan to destroy German ability to fight effectively in the air, on the sea, or on land. Aviation is not a separate factor, but an integral part of modern warfare—as essential a weapon as a rifle.

Yet, even after the beginning of the war, aviation's role still was being argued. It was only a few years ago that some theorists still insisted it had no role at all. It remained for the practicalists to demonstrate what it could do to Germany—and to continue the demonstration at the expense of Japan, whose own demonstration at Pearl Harbor may prove to have been the event that unleashed the aerial potentialities of the United States.

The Power of Example

As the foreign relations committee of the Senate begins its hearings on the United Nations charter, there is more at stake than the charter itself. The larger prize is confidence in the future.

The United States is exerting the power of example—good example. Every step it has taken has been a demonstration of its belief in the possibility of international security through cooperation.

No effort has been spared to take the American people into the confidence of their government. There has been free exchange of opinion. Differences have been aired and settled in the open. The final decision is to be made by senators, representing all the 48 states.

American devotion to the belief that nations can work together is attested by wartime policies, such as lend-lease agreements. The principle of cooperative security has been bolstered by American initiative in the Bretton Woods agreements and other measures to stimulate economic cooperation. There is nothing in the record that needs apology; the American people are proceeding on conviction. America is practicing what it preaches about international cooperation. It is using its representative democracy for a world cause. This nation's emergence from the reactionary isolationism into which it was thrown by its disillusionment after World War I is one of the most encouraging of all 20th century political phenomena.

Inevitably there are some who are made uncomfortable by the responsibility of setting the pace and would prefer to take their cue from others. They seize upon every bit of evidence that the American example is not being followed, to prove to their own satisfaction that the project is doomed to failure. But to argue that a good example is not being followed is not to argue that a good example is not worth setting. The most potent thing on earth is a sound idea, whether or not it is recognized. Ultimately, it will have to be recognized. The United Nations charter itself is recognition of the soundness of an idea placed before the Allies by Woodrow Wilson 25 years ago—and spurned by most of them.

Music For The Soldier

The art of music has always meant much to the soldier. For centuries it has urged him into battle with life and pipe and drum, and its less martial strains have offered him a brief escape from the bleakness and grimness of war.

The soldier in this war has been no different. Music has been important in keeping up morale. The first parachute of supplies dropped on Attu in the Aleutians carried, besides food and other absolute necessities, a phonograph and a set of records.

Musical equipment has accompanied the American soldier and sailor into every theater of operations. And almost any serviceman will tell you that it has helped to make life a little more livable.

Much of this equipment has been issued by the services themselves. But a great deal of it has been contributed by the National Federation of Music Clubs in the course of a modestly publicized program now four years old.

The National Federation of Music Clubs is made up of hundreds of community groups, the Harmony Clubs and Matinee Musicales and such that are found in almost every town in the country. In the summer of 1941 they began sending instruments and entertainers to Army camps and Navy bases here at home, sometimes flying small pianos by cargo planes to the more remote installations.

With the start of the war, the Federation gave to each outgoing transport a portable phonograph and a consignment of records. Often these gave the men the only music they had to relieve the monotony and anxiety of a blacked-out voyage on which even radio listening was prohibited.

Later the Federation equipped outgoing battalions with enough instruments to make up hillbilly bands, since cargo limitations at that time did not permit the shipping of larger instruments. And as casualties began coming home in increasing numbers, these musical donations were broadened.

Today each hospital ship receives from the Federation a kit of instruments and song books, four phonographs, 100 popular records, and sets of classical and religious records.

All told, the clubs of the Federation have raised $80,000 for their work and sent a million and a quarter articles of musical equipment to the fighting forces at home and abroad. And though they have donated plenty of drums and bugles, the clubs have been too busy to play many fanfares and flourishes on their own behalf. So a little belated recognition of their generosity seems entirely in order.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, July 12

ALTHOUGH there are excellent prospects for launching new and important projects, affecting the finances, credit, career and major ambitions, either in business or personal life, yet it is also indicated that an excess of energy, too-aggressive methods, over-excitement or impetuosity might prove a detrimental rather than a productive and profitable factor in promoting cherished objectives.

The forces and faculties may be keyed to concert pitch, and things may move at high tempo, and yet be carried to defeat by all forms of excess, excitement and strenuous tactics. Know the facts, proceed with calm purposes and skill, and there may be surprising benefits and happiness.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of exciting and tumultuous adventures, probably in putting over big deals or projects of scope and significance. High-pressure operations, with keen insight into factual and fundamental forces and factors actuating aggressive and strenuous action, should culminate in desired success and monetary satisfaction, affecting the business as well as personal life in thrilling degree. Yet over-enthusiasm, impetuosity, ill-temper or rivalry, rash and extravagant tactics, might combine to bring about defeat, disappointment and ill-will. Calm and poise, constructive skill, restraints, should win out.

A child born on this day will have much energy, constructive ability and genuine ambitions, but may be defeated by its own excessive zeal, impetuosity, or want of equilibrium.

Obesity Is Really a Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

OBESITY of overweight is a disease, and in spite of its frequency, it is a disorder that does not as a rule receive the full attention it deserves. Overweight persons have a higher death rate than do normal people. The frequency of diabetes, high blood pressure, disorders of the heart and kidneys as well as orthopedic disorders, that is, conditions affecting the bones, joints and muscles, is much greater among the overweight than among those whose weight is normal or even below normal.

No one really wants to be fat, and yet once a person becomes fat, he only too often does nothing to remedy the condition, and there is no excuse for this, since obesity not only can be prevented but cured.

Output Of Energy

If a person's output of energy is more than his intake of energy in the form of food a loss in weight will occur. If, on the other hand, the intake in energy in the form of food is greater than the output life excess will be stored in fat. According to Doctor Yoshida of Milwaukee, this rule applies even to those persons who may be overweight in part because of some disturbance of the glands, such as the thyroid. It is true that lack of secretion from the thyroid and pituitary glands may be a factor in producing overweight.

Doctor Taira does not believe that heredity has anything to do with obesity although many other physicians think that it does. In other words, to be fat does not run in the family. Body build is hereditary. That is, the type of body makeup is often the same for members of a family, but it is the mode of living and the eating habits that have great effect in producing overweight not heredity. When the members of a family get into the habit of overeating.

ing, everyone in the family becomes accustomed to it and this in turn will lead to overweight.

Middle-aged Group

Habit also explains the fact that persons in the middle-aged group are overweight more frequently than younger persons for the middle-aged have carried over the habits of overeating which they formed during their early years. In addition, during the middle-aged period, physical activities become less strenuous and this also contributes to weight gain.

The treatment of overweight consists in doing two things, to cut down the intake of energy and to increase the output. However, this is not always easy to do. Exercises may be employed but care must be taken that they are not so strenuous as to overtax the obese person's already overloaded heart.

The most important part of the management of obesity is a proper diet and the diet must be strictly adhered to. Even with the diet, for a period of two or three weeks there may be no loss in weight or in some instances a gain in weight, but when this initial period has passed, a marked drop in weight will begin to occur and the obesity will then rapidly disappear.

The diet and other treatment is always best carried out under the directions of the physician.

Dr. Bundesen will answer letters containing medical questions only through his column. Address your inquiries to Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, 235 E. 45th st., New York City.

far as is known, no white man before had seen the part of the world where Robert and Hammel lived in their ice-encrusted cave and surely never had a color or creed ever had a story during its many retellings to the States to recover his job and get a bone-setting job of his shattered ankle, his took on a double load of ice to be tried to get back to Din- kept gathering ice, and at out of the grayness beyond windshield, a mountain peak ally leaped at him. Instinct- by Robert swung hard on the side to veer away, but it was late. An instant later there a terrific crash, and a jolt snapped his right ankle like a stick and broke the neck of Li Wong, the Chinese boy who had been his radio operator that morning. Ridge Ham- right ankle was badly damaged — making it pretty evi- dent that no right rudder had ever been kicked harder by pilot and Co- together.

Correspondents Tell of Interesting Island War Happenings

SALEM—The old Okinawa farm- had found his place in the sun, revealing him now, it is hard to imagine what his last thoughts might have been about the shut- tling-sun emblem of Japan. He was obviously a simple man and a poor one, for his black quilt- kimono was tattered and dirty, sprawled dead in the life-giv- ing sun, surrounded by his cab- age, cane and carrots.

War had struck him down. Memory of the old farmer came I sorted odds and end of Ok- kawa mementos. There was the Japanese school text marked "sum- mer exercises" for studying the English language. Printed prior to the war, it was used in Ok- kawa. The pamphlet, described as for use as a refresher text during summer vacations, said in the first place: "Japan does not want China's land. Japan is fighting the Government of Chiang Kai-Shek, the people of China are our friends."

There followed a discourse on war. After that the text got to the business of war:

Always Jag Slogan

"Our army made a raid on Yunnan. Kunming is a big city. Yunnan. It is through Yunnan China now gets her foreign goods." There was a picture of Japanese bomber over a smok- ing city. On the lighter side were exer- cises dealing with the seasons, flowers, crops and bits of proverbial wisdom. The Okinawans learning English were reminded: "The slogan is Asia for the Asi- ans." And: "Germany has the largest air force. England is the most of German air raids. Even the United States of America fears Germany should get an air base in South America from which they may attack New York."

Finally the old farmer was asked his grandchildren had the opportunity to learn the English language from the Japanese pre- war pamphlet. The pamphlet also expounded the divine wisdom of the sacred emperor of Nippon.

Did the old farmer accept that. His dead face was inscrutable.

A pilot flying at an altitude of 10,000 feet can see approximately 100 miles in every direction.

For three days the two men lived in the shelter of their man- gled cabin. Robert in an agony of pain from his broken ankle, Hammel of little use to himself or his friend because of his own injury as well as the intense sub- zero cold that threatened to freeze them to death before the still- raging blizzard had died down. They hadn't even the strength to bury poor Li, but could only spread out his parachute and lay it over his body. On the third day, when their emergency ra- tions were just about gone, the storm cleared and Hammel dragged himself out of the ship to discover that they were within crawling dis- tance of a steep, snow-packed de- cline. Studying the terrain below, Hammel noticed that the slope con- tinued for several miles before reaching the scrubby black fringe of the timber line. He saw a chance for them to cover that entire dis- tance without using their feet at all. He crawled back to the plane, explained his plan to Robert and between them they bandaged their ankles with strips of parachute silk. Then they tore up a couple of floorboards from the plane's cabin and set out on probably the most colossal sleigh ride in the history of that sport.

All day long the two boys work- ed their way down the mountain from one ice-capped ridge to an- other. They would crawl on hands and knees from the foot of one de- cline to the top of another, then mount their individual "sleds," and pushing over the edge, drop hun- dreds of yards in a few breathtaking seconds.

Robert had a pocket compass with him, and after they reached the timber line they held to a course roughly southwest, figuring that it would take them—if they lived long enough—to the neighborhood of Dinjan. There was a hundred miles between them and the field, how- ever, the unexplored, unmapped ter- ritory of the Mishmi Hills, which was inhabited by aboriginal tribes of Mishmi-ites.

It was almost two weeks after Robert and Hammel crashed on the mountain peak that they crawled into a clearing and saw a small mud hut with a wisp of smoke curling out through a hole in the thatched roof.

The Mishmi-ites, whenever we had heard them mentioned before, had always been referred to as head-hunters, but they showed no inclination to decapitate Robert and Hammel. In fact they grew to like their guests, and were much impressed by the white men's watches, cigarette lighters and the zippers on their tattered flying jackets. When Robert pro- duced a mechanical pencil and started drawing pictures on a piece of bark, showing an air- plane flying through the air and crashing into a mountain, his fame spread through the hills like wild- fire. Men, women and children from other tribes came to see these won- ders. Finally, one day, a young boy came, an unusually bright-looking youngster, and after watching Joe draw pictures for a while he tried to explain that he wasn't satisfied with that; he wanted something different, something better. He pointed to Joe and then to the bark. Then he said the Mishmi word for "name"—which was one of the 200 words Joe and Ridge picked up dur- ing their month with the tribe—and Ridge laughed and said, "Hell, Joe, he wants your autograph."

Joe wrote his name on the bark and the boy got all excited. He was impatient to get his hands on it. Joe was just about to give it to him when it dawned on him what this bright youngster had in mind. In a fever of excitement he tore off the corner of a map he had brought with him and wrote more words, explaining who he and Hammel were, and telling what had happened to them. The boy grabbed the paper and ran from the hut. Four days later he returned with a letter from the officer in command of a British scouting force saying that supplies were on their way and a medical officer would soon follow.

Questions and Answers on Problems of the Servicemen

WASHINGTON — Here are some questions regarding care in veterans hospitals:

Q. I have read several conflicting statements about how Veterans Administration is supposed to pay for transportation to its hospitals and back. Just what are the regulations on that?

A. If admission to a veterans hospital has been authorized, and the applicant is being hospitalized for treatment of disease or injury as a result of his service, transpor- tation to the hospital is furnished. Return transportation is paid after authorized discharge or completion of treatment. If the treatment is for a non-service-connected dis- ability transportation is furnished only when the patient is unable to pay it himself. When a veteran is being admitted for domiciliary care, transportation to the hospital is furnished for the first admission. Return transportation is furnished only upon approval of the Director of National Homes, Veterans Ad- ministration.

Q. I was discharged from the Navy because of an injury to my jaw. As a result of the injury I have had a lot of trouble with my teeth. I have to go a long way to get to the Veterans Administration hospital. Is there some way I can get treatment close to home?

A. Yes. Treatment can be au- thorized by a private dentist near your place of residence. Make your request for such treatment to the nearest VA field station.

Q. My son has something wrong with his back. A Veterans Ad- ministration Hospital is very close. I am a veteran of World War II with the Purple Heart. I have never used these hospital facilities and I wonder if I could take my son there for an examination.

A. No. VA hospital facilities are only for persons who actually served.

they would be a far more formidable enemy next time than they are now.

Japan has learned much about modern war from her disastrous contact with the western powers. Her operations in many respects have been crude as compared with the methods which have been carried against her from out of the west. But they won't be crude next time.

Thus if there is any lesson which stands out in our war against Japan, it is that she must be rendered impotent to do further damage. She must be stripped of every weapon, and must be deprived of the wherewithal with which to create fresh war material.

What then is there for us to do but to exact unconditional surrender? There is no alternative if we are to have permanent peace.

The Japanese have been told categorically that the Allies "have no desire or intention to destroy or enslave" them. At the same time it has been made equally clear that unless Japan surrenders she will suffer the same destruction as Germany. Actually the punishment probably will be worse, because Nippon is more vulnerable to bombing.

That is the final verdict which the Mikado's government must accept.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK by Hal Boyle

By HELEN CAMP (Substituting For Hal Boyle)

LONDON — Many a G. I. who spent the last few years longing for Times Square or Main street also is going to find himself homesick for London's Hyde Park.

Nowhere in the states is there anything like it.

London's poor have long used the marble arch corner of the mile-long greensward as their principal source of pleasure and principal outlet for freedom of speech.

And G. I.'s are some of the most regular customers at the kind of disorganized county fair that springs up nightly—where the only restrictions are that you can't take up a collection or incite a riot and all you need to be an orator are a step ladder and a good pair of lungs.

Over his Market street bourn or Greenwich village beer the soldier-turned-civilian will remember: Singing "Rock of Ages" and "The Old Rugged Cross" in with a cross-section-of-humanity clustered around an elderly gentleman with a Santa Claus face and organic voice.

Heckling ladder-mounted speakers who wave their arms and alternately talk quietly and argue hotly with the crowd.

Watching a sweet-faced Salvation Army girl speak softly from the depths of her red and blue bonnet.

Turning to stare at a red-faced man who wanders aimlessly about screaming, "Christ died to save us . . . you're not looking for a hole in the ground, you're looking for the Heavenly Father," until he, too, collects a crowd.

Standing in a circle about someone who shouts about "democracy" in barely-recognizable English.

Listening to the elderly Negro who sports a fantastic red-white-and-blue ostrich feather headdress and uses large American English, Canadian, and Australian flags as fan-dancers use fans and shifts from religious tirades into shady stories about Yanks in Piccadilly Circus.

And, most of all, sprawling on the grass with English girls or strolling hand-in-hand into the shady, secluded stretches of the famed Serpentine walk.

Yes, the G. I.'s will miss Hyde Park.

HORSE RACING HIT BY NEW ODT BAN

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Horse racing was brought to a standstill, if not another shutdown, today by the Office of Defense Transportation.

The ODT ordered transportation of race horses or show animals by railroad and common or contract motor carriers be prohibited, effective at 6 p. m., Eastern War time, today.

Continuance of racing appeared to be virtually impossible except at tracks where horses already are stabled.

Thus the billion-dollar sport faced its second serious setback in less than a year.

Last December James P. Byrnes, then war mobilization director, ordered a stoppage of racing, effective Jan. 3, 1945.

This ban remained in effect until Fred M. Vinson, successor to Byrnes, lifted it last May 9, after victory over Germany.

Since its revival, racing has drawn record crowds all over the country.

Say Germany Bears Close Watching for Next Fifteen Years

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Senators studying Germany's war potential think the beaten nation still has so much power and will to use it she can't be trusted for at least 15 years.

A military subcommittee headed by Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.) found in a preliminary report based on trips abroad and hearings here that Germany still has:

"The world's third strongest industrial economy . . . tremendous recuperative power . . . a world wide network of economic and political reserves penetrating other nations . . . the science of aggression perfected by her leading industrialists, militarists and politicians to reverse the decisions of the battlefield."

The committee recommended U. S. representatives on the Allied Control commission report to Congress every three months on the progress of steps to disarm Germany and keep her industrial machine working only on normal peacetime output.

Mullins Defeats Recreation 5-1 To Maintain Top Rating

CHINA OUTFIT FORFEITS TO LEETONIA 9-0

Lanney In Best Form As Mullins Drops Recs From Top Ranks

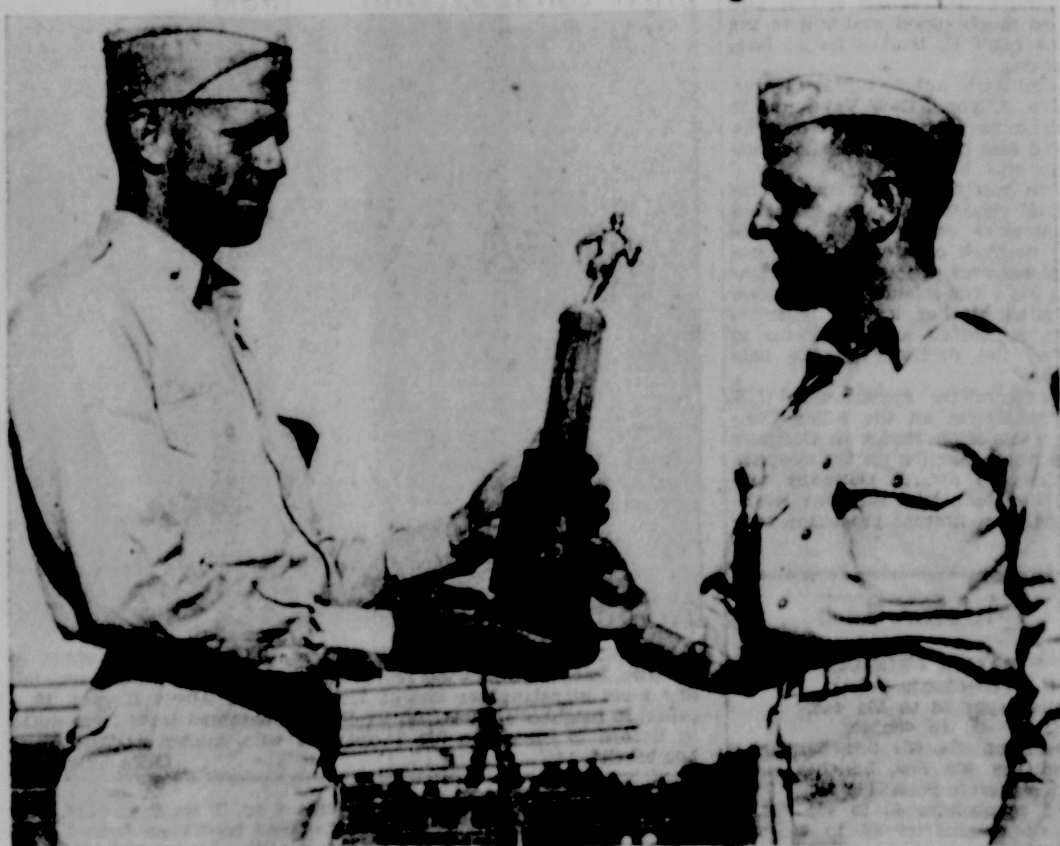

Mullins still reigns supreme in Class A softball. After last night, when Mullins defeated the Recreation 5-1 at Centennial park the Class A picture stacks up as if beating the factory men is going to be a problem for any team this round or any other round.

The Salem China forfeited 9-0 to Leetonia in the other game.

Francis Lanney was faster and smoother working last night than at any other time this year. He put the Rec down with but three safeties and had things under his thumb all the way.

The lone Rec run, scored in the Lieut. Wilms graduated from Medical Administration Corps OCS in November, 1943, at Camp Barkley, Texas.

All-Stars Are Picked But Outcome Will Never Show Except In Experts' Minds

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, July 11.—National league hitting power against American league pitching would have been the story of the 1945 All-Star game — if it had been played — according to lineup selected for The Associated Press by 13 of the 16 major league managers.

Although the annual extravaganza, scheduled to have been played yesterday in Boston's Fenway park, was cancelled in cooperation with the Office of Defense Transportation's request to save travel, the 25-man teams that Billy Southworth and Luke Sewell would have batted provided solid material for a "dream game."

Sewell would have been able to throw Dave Ferris of Boston, the most-talented player in baseball, against the Nats and followed up with Detroit's Hal Newhouse and Lanky Russ Christopher of the Philadelphia A's. Then he would have had fellows like Hank Borows of New York, Steve Gromek and Allie Reynolds of Cleveland, Dutch Leonard of Washington and Thornton Lee of Chicago.

Against that array of mound talent, Southworth could have sent to the plate an explosive lineup paced by Boston's Tommy Holmes, hitting .401 and boasting a record 37-game hitting streak, and Phil Cavarretta of Chicago, whose batting average now is .372.

Plenty of Talent
The National league skipper could have used an entire Card infield with the exception of first base, filling out with Emil Verban, Marty Marion and Whitey Kurowski. He also would have had Cincinnati's Frank McCormick to spell Cavarretta at first, Chicago's Don Johnson, a sparkplug in the Cubs' first-place drive, might have been at second and either Stan Hack of Chicago or Bob Elliott of Pittsburgh could have subbed for Kurowski at third.

Mell Ott of New York was named to the star for the 12th time in 13 years, missing only the 1933 opener, Dixie Walker and Andy Pafko of the Dodgers and Bill Nicholson of the Cubs were the other flycatching talent selected.

Big Ernie Lombardi of New York had to be the catcher on a great comeback year but Boston's Phil Masi, hitting .335, and Ken O'Dea, St. Louis vet, would have been available.

Billy the Kid would have his old ace, Mort Cooper, to do the throwing with Brooklyn's Hal Gregg and Chicago's Claude Passeau in the front line. Other pitchers named to the squad were Hank Wyse of Chicago, Charles (Red) Barrett of St. Louis, Preacher Roe and Rip Sewell of Pittsburgh and Van (The New) Mungo of New York.

Tony Cuccinello was robbed of the opportunity of becoming the first man to play on both sides of the All-Star feud. He was elected this year from the Chicago White Sox on his leading .328 average and was picked for the National when playing with Brooklyn 12 years ago.

Nick Etten and George Starnes of New York, Vern Stephens of St. Louis and Cuccinello would have given the Americans a formidable infield with Lou Boudreau of Cleveland, the 1944 hitting king, Eddie Mayo of Detroit, George McQuinn of St. Louis, and Oscar Grimes of New York to back them up.

Hank Greenberg of Detroit, discharged from the Army about a month ago, received enough votes to be named for the third time although he has played only one week.

Sewell couldn't match Southworth's outfield in hitting averages but a trio of George Case of Washington, Doc Cramer of Detroit and Bob Johnson of Boston, or Greenberg, would have packed a solid wallop. Jeff Heath's powerful bat would have been available as would have been the skillful veteran Wally Moses of Chicago.

American league catching would have been handled by Rick Ferrell of the Senators, Mike Tresh of the White Sox and Frankie Hayes of the Indians.

Managers Southworth and Sewell of St. Louis and Joe McCarthy of the Yankees declined to make any selections on short notice although Sewell listed his personal All-Stars as Ferris and Cuccinello.

SERVICE DEPT.
Ted (Red Sox) Williams and Bob (White Sox) Kennedy probably will play only home games with the Jacksonville Naval Air station ball team because of intensive pilot training.

Athletics Lose 5 to 4 In Massillon Game

The Salem A. C. were beaten 5-4 yesterday at the hands of the Massillon Hardware team in Massillon. Joe Hrovatic and Bob Miller split the pitching duties, Hrovatic getting credit for the loss.

Salem plays Mike's Hardware from Alliance at Centennial park at 6 tonight.

MAJORS READY TO DO BATTLE AGAIN

Set Out Today To Travel For Another Series Between Sections

(By Associated Press)

Major leagues hit the road today toward another inter-sectional series after winding up a seven-game charity program that netted War Relief organizations more than $225,000. Action will be resumed Thursday.

Crowds totaling 170,025 turned out for the two days of exhibitions with the American league grabbing five of the seven decisions.

Largest gathering was Monday's turnout of 47,144 at Chicago but Boston club officials estimated their afternoon game yesterday realized approximately $70,000 although only 22,809 paid to watch it. Forty-four Bostonians paid $1,000 each for as many box seats.

Dave Ferris confined his pitching to the right-handed variety and kept Tommy Holmes from getting a hit in three innings but the Braves' flycatcher got his daily single later on. Randy Hefflin and Clem Hausmann jobbed up on the Braves, after Ferris finished, to give the Red Sox an easy 8-1 verdict.

Shepard Hurts
Bert Shepard, one-legged war veteran, tolled four innings in his first mound appearance for Washington to get credit for a 4-3 edge over Brooklyn in a tilt that attracted 23,791 fans and $22,760.

Luke Sewell gave the St. Louis Cardinals a look at his Browne pitching staff, using one an inning, and the nine hurlers blanked the World Champions with two hits, 3-0, before 24,113.

In the battle of the cellar clubs, the Phillies nosed out the Athletics in Philadelphia, 7-6, with only 4,835 fans on hand. Jimmy Foss made his major league debut as a pitcher but was sluggish off the hill when the Athletics counted six times in the fifth.

Air Basers Lose
COLUMBUS, July 11.—The six-game winning streak fashioned by Lockbourne Army Base flyers snapped yesterday as they bowed to Trux Army Air field of Madison, Wis., 10 to 8.

Doyle Begins Polishing
CLEVELAND, July 11.—Jimmy Doyle, Los Angeles welterweight, arrived in Cleveland yesterday to complete his training for his scheduled 10-round match with Tommy Bell of Youngstown July 19.

SPORT CHATTER
BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, July 11.—Abe Greene, the National Boxing Association president, suggests "grading" boxers the same way baseball players are graded—that is ranging from major leaguers down to class "D" and "E." "As it is now," says Abe, "a boxer can be a pre-liminary boy in one state and a finalist in another." That condition of system of classification as long as 20,000 fans will pay up to $15 a ticket in one place while other cities are in the $1.50 class. But Abe still has a good idea about keeping the records straight and assigning fighters to definite grades.

Navy Lieut. Joe Orsini recently proposed a system of record cards, but Greene pointed out that it would be necessary for all states to adopt this system and from New Orleans Fred Digby comes in with the suggestion that the cards would have to be made foolproof to keep some of the boys from giving themselves handsome records on faked cards.
